2013 May 25th, Blue Team Office of Emergency Management, Briefing Room

Welcome,
Captain Han.

How was the air up in the North?

The mission was a success.

To be honest,
I thought...

Even up to the moment I reported back to the president...

That all of this was nothing but his delusion...

Everything was too smooth,
like fitting pieces in a puzzle.

It almost felt like the whole thing was scripted.

It felt like I was playing a role as an actor.

If there is a true culprit behind these series of events...

Next time he'll show his true colors and play his best cards.

He must be stopped
before he could do so.

ART-WRITING KIM JAE-HEE

Two days ago, 210°S, May 23rd, Dawn, off the coast of the Yellow Sea.

*Toh (Ship is named after a South Korean UGT driver who died in service during the rescue operation of the 2010 Cheonan Incident.

All clear, reporting from DDG-1001
"Toh" is in. We have successfully picked up the attrition team 3 miles ago,
after a brief engagement.
We are returning from course 160°, 170
in 40 miles.

We brought him back in one piece. Good job
Captain.

Fucking piece of shit.

I swear I'll kill this prick if he doesn't spit out any valuable intel.

Let's just see if what he brought is any good

Yeah, it better be.

Three days ago, 2003,
May 22nd, Night. Five West Sea Lands.

This is 66th Battalion HQ.

After the mission had been granted, I headed straight towards the Five West Sea Lands in a prepared chopper.

This is the 66th Air Force
Black Hawk, I see the landing pad.

Approaching from 2003.
please confirm, over

Arrival time, confirmed. Please proceed on the current course.

Roger that; landing.

The infiltration base was guarded by soldiers stationed in the area.

66th Battalion,
Captain Park
Hong-Un

Please follow me; the others are waiting for you.

The young captain led me without hesitation, all suspecting it was like "he was familiar with this kind of thing."

We left the battalion's operating area and walked through the forest...

Until we reached something that appeared to be an abandoned bunker.

The narrow staircases led me to the basement, which in turn, led me to a seemingly endless hallway.

The hallway ended by the time I thought we reached the shore.

This is it sir, please go in.

Beyond the opened steel door...

By the sound of its mechanical parts...

Lay an old infiltration base made from the natural cave.

Below, a few were getting ready; there were the members of the infiltration team.

Among their fierce faces...

You must be the man the HQ sent, I'm Captain Park.

The leader of the group introduced himself in an unemotional, monotone voice.

Alpha Team Leader, pleased to meet you.

After the quick introduction, the Captain briefed me about the mission.

The mission will take approximately 8 hours, from 2100 hours to next day 0500 hours. As you know we'll be moving in small groups.

CAPTAIN PARK
GAM-8708

This man is in charge of scouting and recon. Call him "Won". The Command already surveyed and scouted our operating area so just follow our scout.

Don't shoot at him, just follow him.

This is our explosives and demolition expert, also in charge of clearing the escape route, "Gam".

JOHN PRESIDENT
KALLINGER

And finally,
"Suh". His job is to make sure our
"G" is clear and to destroy any evidence.

You and your operative can work along with us as you stick between Gam
and I.

SUN JIN-HO

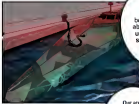

Great,
and?

To avoid detection, we will try to avoid using any radio transmission. We'll also pack our combat uniform, rations and immunization within our pack during the initial infiltration.

"Looks like I won't be able to keep an eye on these guys... But whatever.

We'll be infiltrating above surface, using a high-speed patrol boat.

Our area of operations is approximately 40km from the infiltration base. We will go past the "NLL" avoiding enemy patrol ships and approach towards the coast.

*The Northern Limit Line (NLL) is the maritime border between North and South Korea

From there we will use the "DPVs" that were attached to the ship to reach the shores.

After hiding the DPVs, we will infiltrate and move towards the last known location of our contact ...

and snatch the intel. After, we'll return to shore, recover the DPVs and head back to the ship before 0500. Then we will be all clear to return.

Okay,
I'm ready.
Anyway, where's
Choi Jeong-
Woo?

Over
here, sir!

You're
late! Are you good to go?

Without too much talking, we prepared and left the infiltration base,

Full-speed surface infiltration in the middle of the night? I had a bad feeling about this.

When I asked the Captain about the possibility of underwater infiltration...

Not only would that take up too much time, we can do nothing but get shot once we are spotted. If the enemy ever detects us, it is best to get out of the danger zone as quick as possible.

Just as I carefully analyzed the Captain's words about murderkill101...

The creeping North Korean patrol boat suddenly emerged from the darkness.

*LTN Type of North Korean coastal patrol boat

IT'S A
"TAECHONG-
CLASS! EVERYBODY!
ABANDON SHIP!"
